Lifecycle placement and recommendations

Product	Lifecycle placement	Support recommendations
Facebook/Meta	Maturity stage with elements of renewal. Facebook is a very large established social network, while Meta continues to renew engagement through Reels, AI, WhatsApp, Instagram, and advertising products.	- Protect retention by improving feed quality, privacy controls, and group/community relevance. - Grow younger-user engagement through short-form video, creator tools, and AI-assisted discovery. - Continue diversifying revenue through messaging commerce, business tools, and cross-platform advertising. - Invest in trust, safety, misinformation controls, and regulatory compliance. - Rationalize mature features and focus investment on high-engagement surfaces.
Coca-Cola	Maturity stage. Coca-Cola is an iconic global beverage brand with distribution in more than 200 countries and a broad beverage portfolio.	- Defend brand equity through consistent positioning, sports/entertainment sponsorships, and localized campaigns. - Expand low/no-sugar, functional, hydration, coffee, and ready-to-drink options to match health and lifestyle trends. - Optimize packaging sustainability, refill/reuse options, and supply-chain efficiency. - Use pricing, channel, and occasion-based packaging to protect margins. - Continue product line pruning where complexity exceeds demand or margin value.
Purity Woods Age-Defying Dream Cream	Growth stage. The brand appears to be expanding within organic anti-aging skincare, supported by premium positioning, USDA organic claims, and direct-response marketing.	- Validate repeat purchase rate, subscription adoption, and customer lifetime value. - Build credibility with transparent ingredients, clinical support, before/after guidance, and review governance. - Scale acquisition carefully so paid media costs do not outrun margin. - Expand bundles and adjacent skincare products without diluting the hero product. - Strengthen retail, affiliate, influencer, and dermatology/esthetician partnerships.
