

Ethical and Bias Analysis Worksheet

Completed bias/ethics annotations, rewritten descriptions, and comparison notes

Ethical and Bias Analysis - Responsible Product Descriptions

Product Description 1: EcoCleanse Juicer - Bias and Ethical Concerns

Category	Issue Identified	Why It Is a Concern
Bias	Claims the product is "undoubtedly the best juicer on the market."	This is an unsupported superiority claim that may mislead customers.
Bias	Says it is designed exclusively for people who are "smart enough" and the "educated elite."	This creates elitist and exclusionary messaging that implies some customers are inferior.
Ethical Concern	Claims the juicer preserves "100% of the nutrients."	This may be scientifically unproven and could misrepresent product performance.
Ethical Concern	Suggests users will "live longer" and "outshine the average person."	This implies unsupported health and social status outcomes.

Product Description 1: Bias-Free Rewrite

The EcoCleanse Juicer is designed to support a balanced lifestyle by helping users prepare fresh juices from fruits and vegetables. It is built to extract juice efficiently while aiming to retain important nutrients during the juicing process. EcoCleanse is suitable for individuals and families who want a convenient way to add fresh juice to their daily routine as part of an overall approach to health and wellness.

Product Description 2: SmartSaver Financial App - Bias and Ethical Concerns

Category	Issue Identified	Why It Is a Concern
Bias	Describes the app as the "only sensible choice."	This dismisses other valid options and overstates the product claim.
Bias	Positions the app as preferred by the "wealthy and successful."	This implies financial status determines wisdom or product suitability.
Bias	Claims users are more affluent and financially savvy than average people.	This creates superiority messaging and stereotypes users by wealth.
Ethical Concern	Claims algorithms can "predict and influence market trends."	This may be misleading, manipulative, or suggest unrealistic financial advantage.
Ethical Concern	Promises an "unmatched advantage" in the financial world.	This can mislead users about investment certainty and risk.

Product Description 2: Bias-Free Rewrite

The SmartSaver Financial App provides tools that can help users budget, track spending, monitor savings goals, and better understand financial patterns. The app includes algorithmic features that analyze market and personal finance data to provide general insights. These insights should be used as informational guidance and, when appropriate, alongside professional financial advice. SmartSaver is designed for anyone interested in improving financial organization and planning.

Task 6 and Task 7: Comparison Notes

This analysis is consistent with the provided solution: both identify unsupported claims, elitist language, misleading nutrient-preservation statements, wealth-based bias, and questionable claims about predicting or influencing markets. This version adds more explicit reasoning for why each phrase is problematic and provides polished, inclusive rewrites.